What if we could make it so everyone has the exact same level of intelligence, talent, and/or beauty as idolized people?

Would you want to level the playing field? Why or why not?
In the year 2081, a world of equality is exactly what the author Kurt Vonnegut Jr. presents. This short story is a satirical dystopian piece in which everyone is absolutely equal.

Satire: literary technique that used humor, irony, exaggeration, or ridicule to expose or criticize an idea.
